

Sense's five year plan

We are proud to present Sense's new five year strategy: It's in our Hands.

Our new strategy is the result of many months of consultation with deafblind people, their families and carers and Sense staff.

Sense has been tremendously successful at developing services, campaigning for change and supporting families. These proud achievements, among many others, form the basis of our new ambitious plans.

There will be a focus on some new areas of development but we will maintain our commitment to support deafblind people locally by providing community based services and will be flexible and responsive to their changing needs.

We hope you find our new plans interesting and share our enthusiasm in tackling some of the challenges we have set ourselves. Please come back to check on how we're doing as we'll be providing regular updates.
