

Serving your deafblind customers

Serving customers with sensory impairments may seem a difficult thing to get right. But it is surprising how simple it can be to transform your service into something accessible to deafblind people, and anyone with a hearing or sight loss.

These pages are designed to help businesses and service providers to understand how to provide for deafblind people. They will help you to build a large new customer base, as well as ensure that you are not in breach of the Disability Discrimination Act.
